1.1 EXTRACT A

[The neighbours discuss Mr Radley's gun-shot.]

Respiration normal, the three of us strolled as casually as we could to the front yard. We looked down the street and saw a circle of neighbours at the Radley front gate.
'We better go down there,' said Jem. 'They'll think it's funny if we don't show up.'	5
Mr Nathan Radley was standing inside his gate, a shotgun broken across his arm. Atticus was standing beside Miss Maudie and Miss Stephanie Crawford. Miss Rachel and Mr Avery were near by. None of them saw us come up.
We eased in beside Miss Maudie, who looked around. 'Where were you all, didn't you hear the commotion?'	10
'What happened?' asked Jem.
'Mr Radley shot at a Negro in his collard patch.'
'Oh. Did he hit him?'
'No,' said Miss Stephanie. 'Shot in the air. Scared him pale, though. Says if anybody sees a white nigger around, that's the one. Says he's got the other barrel waitin' for the next sound he hears in that patch, an' next time he won't aim high, be it dog, nigger, or – Jem Finch !'	15
'Ma'am?' asked Jem.
Atticus spoke. 'Where're your pants, son?'	20
'Pants, sir?'
'Pants.'
It was no use. In his shorts before God and everybody. I sighed.
'Ah – Mr Finch?'
In the glare from the street-light, I could see Dill hatching one: his eyes widened, his fat cherub face grew rounder.	25

1.2 EXTRACT B

[Uncle Jack and Atticus are discussing the trial.]

I waited for Uncle Jack to break his promise. He still didn't.
'Atticus, how bad is this going to be? You haven't had too much chance to discuss it.'
'It couldn't be worse, Jack. The only thing we've got is a black man's word against the Ewells'. The evidence boils down to you-did – I-didn't. The jury couldn't possibly be expected to take Tom Robinson's word against the Ewells' – are you acquainted with the Ewells?'	5
Uncle Jack said yes, he remembered them. He described them to Atticus, but Atticus said, 'You're a generation off. The present ones are the same, though.'	10
'What are you going to do, then?'
'Before I'm through, I intend to jar the jury a bit – I think we'll have a reasonable chance on appeal, though. I really can't tell at this stage, Jack. You know, I'd hoped to get through life without a case of this kind, but John Taylor pointed at me and said, "You're It." '	15
'Let this cup pass from you, eh?'
'Right. But do you think I could face my children otherwise? You know what's going to happen as well as I do, Jack, and I hope and pray I can get Jem and Scout through it without bitterness, and most of all, without catching Maycomb's usual disease.	20

[The fire burns out of control.]

'A fat lot you tried,' said Jack contemptuously. 'You just sat.'
'We used his specs,' said Simon, smearing a black cheek with his forearm. 'He helped that way.'
'I got the conch,' said Piggy indignantly. 'You let me speak!'
'The conch doesn't count on top of the mountain,' said Jack, 'so you shut up.'	5
'I got the conch in my hand.'
'Put on green branches,' said Maurice. 'that's the best way to make smoke.'
'I got the conch –'	10
Jack turned fiercely.
'You shut up!'
Piggy wilted. Ralph took the conch from him and looked round the circle of boys.
'We've got to have special people for looking after the fire. Any day there may be a ship out there' – he waved his arm at the taut wire of the horizon – 'and if we have a signal going they'll come and take us off. And another thing. We ought to have more rules. Where the conch is, that's a meeting. The same up here as down there.'	15
They assented. Piggy opened his mouth to speak, caught Jack's eye and shut it again. Jack held out his hands for the conch and stood up, holding the delicate thing carefully in his sooty hands.	20
'I agree with Ralph. We've got to have rules and obey them. After all, we're not savages. We're English; and the English are best at everything. So we've got to do the right things.'	25

2.2 EXTRACT D

[The death of Simon.]

'Kill the beast! Cut his throat! Spill his blood!'
The blue-white scar was constant, the noise unendurable. Simon was crying out something about a dead man on a hill.
'Kill the beast! Cut his throat! Spill his blood! Do him in!'
The sticks fell and the mouth of the new circle crunched and screamed.	5
The beast was on its knees in the centre, its arms folded over its face. It was crying out against the abominable noise something about a body on the hill. The beast struggled forward, broke the ring and fell over the steep edge of the rock to the sand by the water. At once the crowd surged after it, poured down the rock, leapt on to the beast, screamed, struck, bit, tore.	10
There were no words, and no movements but the tearing of teeth and claws.
Then the clouds opened and let down the rain like a waterfall. The water bounded from the mountain-top, tore leaves and branches from the trees, poured like a cold shower over the struggling heap on the sand. Presently the heap broke up and figures staggered away. Only the beast lay still, a few yards from the sea. Even in the rain they could see how small a beast it was; and already its blood was staining the sand.	15

3.1 EXTRACT E

[General R and others leave Mugo's hut.]

'Forget?' General R asked in a deceptively calm voice. 'No, my friend. We must find our traitor, else you and I took the oath for nothing. Traitors and collaborators must not escape revolutionary justice. Tomorrow you must go back to Githima and see Mwaura about the new plan.'

The other three delegates walked some distance from Mugo's hut 5 before anyone spoke.

'He is a strange man,' Wambui commented.

'Who?' Warui asked.

'Mugo.'

'It is the suffering,' Gikonyo said. 'Do you know what it was to live in 10 detention? It was easier, perhaps, with those of us not labelled hard-core. But Mugo was. So he was beaten, and yet would not confess the oath.'

'It was not like prison,' Gikonyo went on, surprised at his own sudden burst of feelings. 'In prison you know your crime. You know your terms. So 15 many years, one, ten, thirty – after that you get out.'

As suddenly Gikonyo checked himself. He could not clearly see Wambui or Warui in the dark. It seemed to him that he had only spoken to empty air.

'Sleep well,' Gikonyo called outside the house he had recently built.

Warui and Wambui went away without answering. The empty silence 20 harrowed Gikonyo.

[The villagers prepare to run the race.]

Karanja's sudden appearance startled Gikonyo who, to avoid looking at Karanja, moved to where Warui stood and talked to him animatedly. Karanja was also hesitant; it had not occurred to him that Gikonyo might take part in the race. Then contempt for the carpenter filled his heart; he would not give up the race, he resolved, remembering their old race to the train. The unfinished drama was going to be re-enacted in front of Mumbi, and only a few yards from the same railway station. Perhaps this time he would win the race and Mumbi together. Why else had she written that note, he reasoned with anxious optimism, as he bent down to unlace his shoes. Mwaura was talking to General R and Lt. Koina and seemed to be emphasising a point with his right forefinger. The competitors, quite a small crowd consisting of women and men and schoolchildren, were now alerted. The whole field was suddenly hushed a second before the whistle went. Then a tumult of shouting from the spectators accompanied the pandemonium of the starting point. The runners trod on one another. A boy fell to the ground and miraculously escaped unhurt from the trampling feet. Warui dropped out almost immediately. He went and sat next to Wambui and Mumbi.	5 10 15

[Sipho and Thando talk about Themba.]

SIPHO:	I've never been comfortable seeing dead people. Even family. My father had to push me forward to see my mother just before they closed the coffin. I don't want that image to be the last thing I remember about a person. Also I was a bit afraid.
THANDO:	Afraid?	5
SIPHO:	No. Themba was different, though.
THANDO:	You mean more brave?

THANDO:	People don't change. Not that much.
SIPHO:	No. Not Themba. He would never change.
THANDO:	I really wanted to meet Uncle Themba. Everybody said so much about him. Was he handsome?

SIPHO:	With whom?
THANDO:	Uncle Themba.	30

QUESTION 6

'THE DUBE TRAIN'6.1 EXTRACT K

[The narrator boards the train.]

Above and around him, the other passengers, looking Monday-bleared, had no enthusiasm about them. They were just like the lights of the carriage – dull, dreary, undramatic. Almost as if they, too, felt that they should not be alight during the day.

Phefeni Station rushed at us, with human faces blurring past. When the train stopped, in stepped a girl. She must have been a mere child. Not just petite, but juvenile in structure. Yet her manner was all adult as if she knew all about 'this sorry scheme of things entire' and with a scornful toss relegated it. She had the precocious features of the township girls, pert, arrogant, live. There was that air about her that petrified any grown-ups who might think of asking her for her seat. She sat next to me. 5 10

The train slid into Phomolong. Against the red-brick waiting-room I saw a tsotsi lounging, for all the world not a damn interested in taking the train, but I knew the type, so I watched him in grim anticipation. When the train starting sailing out of the platform, he turned round nonchalantly and tripped along backwards towards an open door. It amazes me no end how these boys know exactly where the edge of the platform comes when they run like that, backwards. Just at the drop he caught the ledge of the train and heaved himself in gracefully. 15

'THE SECRET LIFE OF WALTER MITTY'6.2 EXTRACT L

[Walter is waiting for his wife.]

The pounding of the cannon increased; there was the rat-tat-tatting of machine guns, and from somewhere came the menacing pocketa-pocketa-pocketa of the new flame-throwers. Walter Mitty walked to the door of the dugout humming 'Auprès de Ma Blonde'. He turned and waved to the sergeant. 'Cheerio!' he said ...	5
Something struck his shoulder. 'I've been looking all over this hotel for you,' said Mrs Mitty. 'Why do you have to hide in this old chair? How do you expect me to find you?' 'Things close in,' said Walter Mitty vaguely. 'What?' Mrs Mitty said. 'Did you get the what's-its-name? The puppy biscuit? What's in that box?' 'Overshoes,' said Walter Mitty. 'Does it ever occur to you that I am sometimes thinking?' She looked at him. 'I'm going to take your temperature when I get you home,' she said.	10
They went out through the revolving doors that made a faintly derisive whistling sound when you pushed them. It was two blocks to the parking lot. At the drugstore on the corner she said, 'Wait here for me. I forgot something. I won't be a minute.' She was more than a minute. Walter Mitty lighted a cigarette. It rained rain, rain with sleet in it. He stood up against the wall of the drugstore, smoking ...	15

On his blindness – John Milton

When I consider how my light is spent, Ere half my days, in this dark world and wide, And that one Talent which is death to hide, Lodged with me useless, though my Soul more bent To serve therewith my Maker, and present My true account, lest He returning chide. 'Doth God exact day-labour, light denied?' I fondly ask. But Patience, to prevent That murmur, soon replies, 'God doth not need Either man's work or his own gifts. Who best Bear his mild yoke, they serve him best. His State Is Kingly: thousands at his bidding speed And post o'er Land and Ocean without rest; They also serve who only stand and wait.'	5

Cheetah – Charles Eglinton

Indolent and kitten-eyed,
This is the bushveld's innocent
The stealthy leopard parodied
With grinning, gangling pup-content.

Slouching through the tawny grass 5
Or loose-limbed lolling in the shade,
Purring for the sun to pass
And build a twilight barricade

Around the vast arena where;
In scattered herds, his grazing prey 10
Do not suspect in what wild fear
They'll join with him in fatal play;

Till hunger draws slack sinews tight
And vibrant as a hunter's bow;
Then, like a fleck of mottled light, 15
He slides across the still plateau.

A tremor rakes the herds: they scent
The pungent breeze of his advance;
Heads rear and jerk in vigilant
Compliance with the game of chance 20

In which, of thousands, only one
Is centred in the cheetah's eye;
They wheel and then stampede, for none
Knows which it is that has to die.

His stealth and swiftness fling a noose 25
And as his loping strides begin
To blur with speed, he ropes the loose
Buck on the red horizon in.
